To whom it may concern,

CompWellness and particularly Kent Johnson consulted with me when I was just hitting the road with BioAge. Kent helped my company jump-started sales, by helping me directly with sales concepts and marketing strategies.

Through the organization and the networking opportunities it delivers, I was able to developed many relationships in Denver, several that eventually became distributors of our products. As a new member of the health provider community in Denver, I felt immediately at home in the organization.

During the mastermind breakfasts, I had access to a group of professionals with whom to brainstorm ideas and even make commitments and achieve goals. These breakfasts have board meeting like quality.

I was able to publish my first book, The Magic of Bio-Algae Concentrates ~ The Michael Kiriac Story via the publishing arm of CompWellness. Many thanks to Kent Johnson, whom was instrumental when providing his expertise in editing and publishing.

CompWellness Network

Dear Kenton:

When it comes to the people who mean business in the Metro Denver healthcare industry, you are the first name the pops up.

I respect what you are doing, because you are the guru, you are Headquarters for Complementary-Alternative Healthcare - no doubt about it, not even a question. I am behind you 100%!

The last gathering about the Internet was invaluable!

Keep up the great work!

Thank you very much,

Glenn

Complementary Wellness Professional Association

Dear Kent,

We have found the CompWellness Network to be invaluable for networking. I have not been able to attend the breakfasts due to my work schedule but the evening meetings and the Experiential Exchange in particular have been very valuable. The Experiential Exchange gave us a chance to experience the work of other practitioners and get to know them better than is possible at a regular meeting.

As a result, we ended up using the services and products of several of the practitioners we met there and some of them became our customers. For instance, I bought Z-Coil shoes from Donna at Footopia, which have been a lifesaver for my feet and legs, and Donna has promoted my canine massage business, with the assistance of her dog Loki. She even brought Loki to a TV station for me early one Sunday morning so I could use him in our TV spot.

Russell and I both use the physiotherapy services of Doug Olmsted, who we met at the Exchange, and lately I have been trading canine massage on his dogs for his services. He also refers clients to me for canine massage.

So I feel the networking aspect of CWPA has been very valuable for our business, helping us connect up with other practitioners to use each others' services as well as send each other referrals.

Sincerely,

Margaret Auld-Louie
